much of the unemployed in the United States.

The American delegation at Paris, backed by the British, continues to press for the raising of the economic blockade and it is believed here that the sudden settlement of the military and mayal conditions which shall render Germany impotent is an answer to the argument that the only way to make Germany sign the peace treaty is by holding the economic blockade over her head. England and the United States do not share that view, but they are now evidently prepared to put into effect at once measures that will absolutely insure Germany's capitulation with the expectation that the complete lifting of the blockade will thereupon be effective at once.

The navy department yesterday issued the following statement:

"Arraingements have been perfected by the naval department through the chief cable censor, with the British chief cable censor, with the British chief cable censor, whereby cablegrams between United States territory and points outside of the British censorship even though they may pass through British territory.

There can be no doubt in the minds of thinking men as to the danger that faces the intions. France showed her greatness of soul in the dark hours of adversity and we of America who give her unstinted praise trust her to show the same spirit in these days of friumph. It is true philosophy which teaches a man or a nation to bear success as well as defeat. Together France, America and the powers associated with them in this great war must go forward to the completion of the task which they set out to perform to make the world safe for democracy.
